Time to Move

ADRIGA ALBERTA

Now that the Hon. Duncan Marshall has promised to come to Bowden at an early date and discuss with the townspeople the Rural Telephone question would not an action ou the part of our local business men, who have all to gain, for the immediate organization of a Board of Trade be quite the order.?

The improvements which will come up for discussion is business which belongs to the work of a Board of Trade. In placing before our Honorable member the needs of this town and district a Board of Trade would have more weight and influence than an individual champion would, to say nothing of the dignity which the organization would give the requests. Besides individual interviews are condemn e, more or less because the interviewer is, as a rule most likely to champion would, to say nothing of the dignity which the organization would give the requests. Besides individual interviews are condemn a, more or less because the interm, more or less because the interviewer is, as a rule most likely to give his special attention and atrongest arguments to the advocated improvements that will be to his personal gain and benefit and in consequence the rights of the people suffer.

That a Board of Trade will meet with favor there is no doubt. Much comment has reached the News in the past few days in full sympathy with the ideas expressed by the authors of the two letters published in our last issues. The sooner a move is made the better, as work

Try This

Here is a sum in arithmetic which we clipped out of an exchange the other day. At first thought the solution seems an easy problem but we venture to say that there are not more than three readers in Bowden who can give the right solution. Try it and see if your answer will compare with the correct solution which we will publish next week.

Nominations Held

Recording as advertised the village of Bowden held nominations of councillor to fill the vacancy on the council. There were two nominations made, Mr. C. E. Morfitt and Mr. A. McLean being put up. No other names were turned in and the secretary declared an election to be held on Tuesday next.

China's Stone Libraries.

There is a public library of stone in Peking. It is a library of the Kuo Tse Chien, or "School of the Sons of the Empire," an ancient university that existed a thousand years before the Christian era. This library is of stone. On 182 tablets of stone com-posing it are carved all of the "Thirteen Classics," the summary and es-sence of all Chinese culture.

In the Imperial lecture hall of this Kuo Tze Chien the Emperor would go once a year to hear a discourse on the responsibilities and duties of his office and would receive reproof and exhortation from the heads of the institution.

The stone library in Peking is only a copy of that in Shi An Fu, in Shen-si, which was the capital of the empire.

FOUND COMPLETE CURE FOR CRAMPS AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

Suffered For Six Years, But Found Health and New Life in Dodd's Kidney Pills-Warm Praise For Old Reliable Remedy.

Marie East, Bonaventure Co., Quebec.—(Special).—Mr. Peter Bernard, a prosperous young farmer living near here, is spreading the good news that he has found a complete cure for his kidney troubles.

"I suffered for six years from cramps in the muscles and kidney dis-ease," Mr. Bernard says, "but Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely. Yes, I am feeling so well that I want other sufferers to know just how easy it is to be cured.'

It is a good old saying that it is easy to do anything if you just know how. And Mr. Bernard and hundreds of others are telling you just how to cure kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure it. And as kidney disease is the direct cause of rheumatism, lumbago, Bright's disease, heart disease, pain in the back and urinary troubles Dodd's Kidney Pills cure them by removing the cause. If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills yourself ask your neighbors about them. atism, lumbago, Bright's disease, hear

Few people are careful enough in regulating the clothing to meet the changes of temperature. And until cuanges of temperature. And until nore attention is given to dressing suitably there is little chance to check the increase of the great white pla-gue.

By unduly exposing the throat and chest, by wearing thin shoes, by in-sufficient protection to the body, by passing quickly from overheated rooms to the chilly outdoor air—colds are contracted and too often neglected until serious developments arise.

Avoid colds by every means possible, and if so unfortunate as to contract a cold, check it quickly by using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. No treatment for cougas and colds ever had such an enormous sale in this country. The reason is not far to seek. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is no mere cough mixture. It is a medicine of thorough and far reaching action on the human system.

It is not a mere relief for cough ing, but a positive cure for the cold itself. It loosens the cough, allays inflammation, soothes the irritated bronchial tubes, and brings about

CHAPTER XIV. A Ghostly Hand.

Within the Abbey gates was a hroad stretch of trimly-cut turf, bordered by a hedge of yew trees.

Two gravel paths crossed the grass, leading right and left. Lady Anne took the one on the left, passing under an arch cut in the yew hedge; and Harry, following her, found himself immediately in front of the ruins of Loders Abbey.

of Loders Abbey.
At first the sole impression was of many mounds of different sizes and shapes, covered thickly by moss and long grass and waving ferns. But presently the eyes, growing accustomed to the prevailing note of verdure, discovered the ancient stones peeping out beneath the close shrouding of leafage. Rectangular spaces in the of leafage. grass became visible, bases of col-umns, the first slender shafts of windows, and spiral staircases, springing for no apparent purpose from the ivy roots, and winding upward six or seven feet toward the sky.

She led him down among the broken masonry, the moss and bluebells, and the clusters of hartstongue and maidenbair, and began softly explaining to him the different portions of the abbey.

"This great space of grass was the refectory; you can still see the foun-dation of the stone pulpit from which the monks were exhorted during their meals. Here are the kitchens; can you not see the great fireplace there, where the rose-bush is growing? I planted it in that corner, and later in the summer the arch will be covered with yellow roses. Right across that space, if we go down by these steps, we come to the guest rooms and the law brethers' western. and the lay brothers' quarters. I will show you the church first."

show you the church first."

She walked a little before him. Her dark cloak was thrown back, and as she moved, lifting delicately her white gown from the damp earth, the moon made an aureole of her pale gold hair, blown out by the night breeze around her face, so that to Harry she realised pictures he had seen of saints of unutterable beauty visiting the earth. visiting the earth.

"Come down these three steps, she said, half turning towards him and holding out her hand; "they are very uneven. Now you are in the south transept of the church."

It was not a saint's hand that he touched for an instant, but the warm satin-soft hand of a living woman. The walls on either side of them were higher than their heads, and in the shadows about their feet were yawning stone coffins.
"The abbots' tombs were here," she said. "The monks' burying ground is a long way off."

is a long way off."

Harry's thoughts flew to the sexton's story of the carp pond, in which Roger Clavel's body was found.

"'Tis by the wold monks' buryen' ground," the man had said, "and n'ar a one goes there day nor night by reason that the place is a-haunted."

The unconventionality of her conduct in thus showing a stranger over duct in thus showing a stranger over the Abbey by moonlight clearly did not occur to Lady Anne. Her grief and her lonely position had given her and nor lonely position had given her a strange independence. She was, it seemed to Harry, the proudest and the purest woman created. She wished him to leave the neighbourhood probably because he had claimed the detested name of Clavel, and she evidently thought that by showing him the vivine her was a straight for the state of the straight of the him the ruins she was hastening his departure.

"Will you tell me how old the place he asked, speaking for the first

"The Abbey was founded in the twelfth century by an ancestor of mine," she replied. "It was the great-est monastic establishment in the neighbourhood until, by infamous in-justice, the monks were driven out, and the place was flung away—upon a Clavel!"

"Are you of Dorsetshire, Lady Anne?"

"Certainly: did you not know? love every stone, every old free in the country. Here," she went on, drawing aside a bramble with her long white fingers, "is an abbot's tomb, on the outer side of which you can still trace the brass. The Clav-els, of course, despoiled it of that. They tore this place to pieces a hund-red years after they had fliched it from the monks, and built their castle at Lyllyngton, and the chapel and the living house here out of the materials. But they have left enough stones to reproach them, as you can see."

She led him into the small square chapel in which other mutilated tombs were lying, overgrown with trails of

she returned.

The dreamy sensation came upon him again as she led him along a moss-grown path, over which their feet passed in ghostly quiet, and he saw to right and left of him long straight canals, across which the trees by which they walked stretched their branches, in silent intercourse.

Sometimes, at this leafy season of the year, no light could pierce the screen: in other places the moon shone as upon sheets of glass, and pausing near the edge it was possible pausing near the edge it was possible to see the dead leaves of last year lying thick beneath the still surface.

Where the water ways formed three sides of a square, there was a rustic bridge. Lady Anne stood upon it in silence for a moment, gazing down into the water.

Suddenly Harry's heart seemed to contract with horror as he thought of her young life fading in this melan-choly spot.

"Lady Anne," he blurted out, "how can you live here? It is beautiful, but it is terrible."
"Not to me." she returned calmly.
"The erimes and treacheries of living men and women are terrible, not dead men's memories."

"But—do you never even fancy you see ghosts of these old monks for instance, wandering about their former home?"

She remained silent for a few seconds, starting down into the water.
Then she answered slowly:

'I see no more than I wish to see. She led the way into a little wood, and pointed to more ruined walls. Beyond them, Harry saw a large mound, which appeared artificial, and which was closely surrounded by trees.

sort of storehouse of the monks was there, I believe," Lady Anne said.
"Ruined, of course. There are many stories about it, all untrue. Farther on are more ponds, and the monks' burying ground is in the wood. I will take you back by the cloisters." (To be Continued.)

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND

Bill Introduced in Imperial Parlia-ment With This Object.

ment With This Object.

London.—Home Rule for Scotland is the object of a bill introduced by Dr. Chapple, Liberal member for Stirlingshire, who said that the bill was designed to establish a Scottish parliament to deal with matters exclusively relating to Scotland, thus relieving the Imperial parliament of much business. It is proposed to vest the executive power in the Crown, the administration being carried on by a committee of the Scottish Privy Council, responsible to the Scottish parliament. Power is to be given to the Scottish parliament to impose taxes other than customs and excise. Arrangements are provided by the bill for the adjustment of financial arrangements between the Scottish parliament. The supreme power and control of the Imperial parliament is expressly reserved. expressly reserved.

Griffin stated that over 4,000 men are now strung along the grade to a point 146 miles west of the summit of the Rockies, and that the entire line west to Fort George will be under construction by the end of May. Griffin predicts that the rails, which are now laid to mile 28, west of the summit, will be extended by June to the first crossing of the Fraser river, with 96 miles beyond Tete Jaune Cache. The line through to Fort George, he feels confident, will be built and in operation before the end of next year, many months earlier than was originally expected.

WILL BUILD 50 MILES

Sir Wm. MacKenzle Assures Prince Albert of H.B. Ry. Construction

Prince Albert, Sask.—Word was received in the city that James Mac-Kay, M.P., got into touch with Sir William MacKenzie, president of the C.N.R., last week at Ottawa.

Sir William reiterated his statement that fifty miles of the Hudson Bay railway from this city will be built in 1912, and it is expected that grading work will begin soon after spring opens. Sir William stated that the fears of some Prince Albert kingdom of peace and righteousness shall fill the earth (Rev. xxi, 3*: xxii, 3,4; Isa, xxxii, 1,17). As these truths hold us we shall know Him and the power of His resurrection (Phil. iii, 10). interests that the work would not be done this year are groundless.

THE SUNDAY

LESSON I .- SECOND QUARTER, FOR APRIL 7, 1912.

Text of the Lesson, I Cor. xv, 1-11. Memory Verses, 10, 11-Golden Text, Acts II, 32-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns. We turn aside this week from the regular lesson to spend an hour on the resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, a topic on which we should meditate continually, for if Christ be not risen all are lost and preaching and faith are equally in vain (verses 14-10). Consider well His own testimony that He would rise again the third day. (Matt. xii. 40; xvi. 21; xvii. 9, 22, 23; xx 17-19; xxvi, 32; John II. 19-21). Then consider the testimony of those who saw Him after He rose from the dead—Peter, John, Stephen and Paul. Take two testimonies out of many—"This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses."

* * "God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord We turn aside this week from the ed up, whereof we all are witnesses."

* * "God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ." (Acts ii, 32, 36). Our lesson begins with the words, "I declare unto you the gospel," and in verses 3, 4, he defines it in these words: "Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures: He was buried, and He rose again the third day, according to the Scriptures." In Rom. i. 1-4, he speaks of it as "the gospel of God concerning His Son, Jesus Christ our Lord, declared to be the Son of God with power by the resurrection from the dead." In II Tim. ii, 8. he says, "Remember that Jesus Christ of the seed of David was raised from the dead, according to my gospel." Before He ascended He ordered that repentance and remission of sins should be proclaimed in His name among all nations (Luke xxiv, 47), and we need only to listen to Paul in Acts xiii. 38, 39, to understand how simply and fully it was done. "Through this man is proclaimed unto you the forgiveness of sins, and by Him all that believe are justified from all things." As in verse 2 of our lesson, "By which also ye are saved * * unless ye have believed in vain." In verses 5 to 8 Paul mentions five appearances of Christ between His resurrection and ascension, and there were five more, including three others on the resurrection day. Paul mentions five appearances of Christ between His resurrection and ascension, and there were five more, including three others on the resurrection day His appearance to Mary, to the other women and to the two on the way to Emmaus. His appearance to Paul on the way to Damascus (verse 8, was after His ascension, as was also His appearing to him at Corinth and in Jerusalem (Acts xviii, 9, 10; xxiii, 11). Stephen and John also saw Him after His ascension. The statement in Acts i, 3, concerning His resurrection appearances is full and clear. "He showed Himself alive after His passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God." The testimony of Peter in Acts ii, iii, iv, v, concerning the resurrection is very strong, notably that in Acts v, 30-32. Our daily testimony to the risen Christ should be such as to compel people to see that we have been with Jesus. If we know the power of His resurrection it will be so, and He who will finally subdue all things unto Himself (verses 24, 28) will so subdue us and bring every thought into captivity that the Kally life shall be the life of Jesus made manifest in our mortal flesh (II Cor. x, 5; iv, 10, 11). Seeing Jesus lays one very low in his the life of Jesus made manifest in our mortal flesh (II Cor. x, 5; Iv, 10, 11). Seeing Jesus lays one very low in his own estimation, so Paul speaks of himself as the least of the apostles not meet to be called an apostle (verse 9.) He elsewhere speaks of himself as les than the least of all saints and again as the chief of sinners (Eph. iii, 8: I Tim. i. 45). Compare the experience of others in Joh pare the experience of others in Job xiii, 5, 6: Isa, vi. 5; Dan, x, 8; Rev. 1, 17. Where there is the least good opinion of self it is because the King has not been seen in His beauty. We must learn to say as Paul said in Rom. vii, 18. "I know that in me— Rom. vii, 18. "I know that in me— that is, in my flesh—dwelleth no good thing." then we can add, as he does, in our lesson (verse 10), "By the grace of God I am what I am." and concerning all service, "Not I, but the concerning all service, "Not I, but the grace of God which was with me," We should be conscious also, as he was, that we have only to receive from the Lord and deliver to others what we have received (verse 3 and chap. xi. 23). When I consider that the words and works of the Lord Jesus were always the Father's words and works. I can only desire to so yield and abide that I may be His messen-ger with His message and that He may work in me to will and to do of His good pleasure (John xii, 49: xiv. 10: Hag. i, 13; Phil. ii, 13). This is restful and gives great quietness and. according to verse 58 of our lesson chapter, makes one steadfast, unmov-able and always abounding. The resurrection of Jesus Christ makes certain our own resurrection or transla-tion (verses 23, 50-54), and the assurance of a body, like His glorified body, which will never again be weak or weary or suffer or die, is a great in-spiration while we continue in these mortal bodies. In verse 28 we have what seems to me the highest mountain peak in all scripture. "That God may be all in all." Christ shall then may be all in all." Christ shall then have reigned and His saints with him until all things shall have been subdued unto Him. Then shall there be no more curse, no sin nor suffering, no more death, but the long expected

ARTHUR J. BALFOUR The Evolution of a Prime Minister

The Prime Minister of Great Britain, Arthur James Balfour, is a strange adox. A power in politics, he cares nothing for the game; with little or ambition, he has risen to a position second only to that of the King; of a dreamy, philosophic temperament, he has proved himself a man of instant action in every emergency action in every emergency.

He was born in 1848 in Scotland, the son of a wealthy Scotchman, and Lady Cecil, sister of the late Lord Salisbury. At Eton and Cambridge he won no medals for special brilliancy, and no microscopic examination revealed a germ of future greatness. He was a member of "The Souls," a society of enthusiasts vainly seeking the "ultimate" among the list of life's unattainables. When twenty-six he entered Parliament, and was bored and cynical, taking neither himself nor his work seriously; a spectator of life rather than a struggler. As the weak member of "the Fourth Party," he was the good-natured butt of the House and was usually summed up by his fellows as "clever but hopelessly lazy," "clever but hopelessly lazy.

lows as "clever but hopelessly lazy."

In 1886, to the amazement and amusement of England, Sa'isbury, his uncle, named him the successor of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chief Secretary for Ireland. This post that had brought the snow of age to the heads of strong men and had even killed some of them in the fleree days of the "Land League," was given to this young, gentle, easy-going individual. The Iri is members smiled knowingly and rubbed their hands in the glee of anticipation—but it was all premature. Daniel was surely thrown into the lion's den, but the lions had not reckoned on the marvellous transformation.

The indolent, careless manner of Balfour suddenly fell from him as if it were a magic mantle. He stood before them a man of keen judgment, iron will, vigorous and virile force and a master in executive power. He braved alike their taunts, their threats, their insolence and their abuse until they became tired. They were like fairly bullets that hit him but did not hurt him. His firmness, liberality and good sense at last won his enemies.

From one high position to another he rose without any seeming effort, till his present honors fell at his feet in 1902. Balfour is a man of deep religious spirit, sweet and gentle in nature, serious and screne in temperament, simple and unaffected, seemingly unconscious of his strength, a philosopher turned statesman, and so sensitized to the great realities of life as to be unamindful of many things that absorb the whole life of smaller men.

MANY HOMESTEADS OPEN FOR ENTRY ALONG THE C.N.R.

It is estimated that there are over 155,876 free homesteads open for entry in the three prairie provinces, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This means that over 25,000,000 acresare being given away for less than ten cents an acre. The entry fee for one homestead of 160 acres being $10 will mean that when all these homesteads are disposed of the government will have received $1,558,760 for twenty-five million acres of land. Of these homesteads, 118,134 are located adjacent to the Canadian Northern Railway, and 35,000 of them are within twenty mile. of existing C.N.R. linesmany of these being within two or three miles of a railway service. Full detailed information as to where these homesteads are, the nature of the soil and the general description of the country in which they are located, is given in a pamphlet re-

The First Thimble

There is a tradition that a Dutch silversmith pondered long and sil-ently in the slow-working senses which he deemed his brain—a notion which he deemed his brain—a notion for a trinket, a fallal, for a dignified lady of Holland. It must be a usefu trinket, albeit a costly one, meet for so good a sampstress as Dame Alixe Van Renselaer. When the notion took definite shape, the thing was quickly wrought in precious metal by fingers as deft as the brain was slow, and the industrious housewife proudly wore not only her first thimble, but the first thimble possessed by any Dutch frau.—Century Magazine.

Poverty

Poverty has been designed by an all-seeing Providence in order to make the rich humble. Without poverty the rich would not know how well off they were, and if they did not know this, they would have no opportunity to sympathize with the poor: thus, no condition of humility would be possible.

Poverty is also useful in many other ways; it enables sociologists to write books, and, by constant practice, gives them remarkable facility; it affords a splendid field for the theologian, and helps him very much in his illustra-

Uncle Sam's Human Hinges. In other cities the doors of public buildings are set on springs and slap to and fro as the visitor wills, but in Washington it appears necessary to have a special man to open and close the doors-human hinges, as it wereno undignified banging of doors there. This custom has died out in other places, but there are many veteran negroes in Washington who have seen years of such service for the government. They have a stately way of performing this office, which gives a door an official and unofficial swing.-Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Mag-
